"Old Ironsides"

The U.S.S. Constitution, one of the most famous ships in the history of the U.S. Navy, was launched 200 years ago in 1797. As flagship under Isaac Hull in the War of 1812, the 44-gun frigate won brilliant victories over H.M.S. Guerrière and later H.M.S. Java. During the fierce, smoke-filled fight with the Guerrière, the Constitution earned its nickname, "Old Ironsides," when an American sailor, seeing shot from British guns bouncing off the sturdy oak sides, remarked that "the ship had sides of iron." In 1880, when the Constitution was condemned as unseaworthy, public sentiment was aroused by 21-year-old Oliver Wendell Holmes' moving poem, Old Ironsides. Barraged by outraged dissenters, a stunned Secretary of the Navy soon withdrew his order to scrap the aging ship. "Old Ironsides" was rebuilt in 1833 and again in 1877. In 1925 American children contributed their pennies to raise $154,000 to recondition the vessel for a tour of U.S. ports, a job completed with money appropriated by Congress. On July 31, 1931, the U.S.S. Constitution was again commissioned into active service. Today, "Old Ironsides" resides grandly at the Boston navy yard, where the oldest commissioned warship in the U.S. Navy is a major tourist attraction.
